Foreword

With more than two-thirds of India's active companies operating as private limited companies, this corporate form has emerged as the backbone of India's formal business ecosystem. Private limited companies play a crucial role in driving entrepreneurship, employment generation, and innovation across sectors of the economy. This widespread adoption is largely attributable to the regulatory framework under the Companies Act, 2013, which combines ease of operations with clearly defined governance and compliance requirements.

Recognising the need to encourage entrepreneurship and further enhance ease of doing business, the Government of India has, over the years, introduced a series of exemptions, relaxations, and procedural simplifications aimed at improving clarity and reducing compliance burdens, particularly for smaller enterprises. However, despite the availability of multiple exemptions and procedural relaxations, the absence of consolidated guidance often poses challenges to effective compliance for private limited companies.

In this backdrop, I commend the Corporate Laws & Corporate Governance Committee of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India for bringing out this Handbook on Key Compliances and Exemptions for Private Limited Companies. The handbook has been meticulously prepared to serve practitioners, members of the profession, company directors, compliance officers, and other stakeholders as a practical, user friendly, and comprehensive reference on statutory compliances covering incorporation and ongoing operations through expansion along with the applicable exemptions and procedural aspects relevant to private limited companies.

I extend my sincere appreciation to CA. Babu Abraham Kallivayalil, Chairman, CA. Priti Paras Savla, Vice-Chairperson and all the other members of the Committee for their dedicated efforts in bringing out this valuable publication.

I am confident that the handbook will serve as a useful and reliable reference for professionals and corporates alike.

Preface

Corporate governance forms the foundation of a transparent, accountable, and resilient corporate system. It provides the framework through which companies are directed and controlled, ensuring that decision-making aligns with statutory requirements, ethical standards, and stakeholder interests. Sound governance practices are therefore essential not only for large corporates but equally for smaller and closely held entities.

As on December 31, 2025, India has a total of 30,30,432 registered companies, of which 20,14,858 are active. Among these active companies, 19,40,404 are private limited companies, accounting for 96.31%, while the remaining 74,454 are public companies.

The data clearly reflects that the Indian corporate landscape is overwhelmingly driven by private companies. These entities are typically promoter-led, operate with lean organisational structures, and often function with limited financial and managerial resources. In many cases, compliance and governance responsibilities are handled alongside core business operations, rather than through dedicated compliance teams.

Frequent amendments to corporate laws, conditional exemptions, evolving regulatory expectations, procedural complexities, and dispersed regulatory guidance further intensify the compliance burden. As a result, private companies often face practical challenges in ensuring timely, accurate, and fully compliant adherence to statutory and governance requirements. In practice, these challenges often result in uncertainty regarding applicable requirements, inadvertent non-compliances, or excessive dependence on fragmented sources of information. The need for clarity, consolidation, and practical guidance is therefore particularly acute for private limited companies.

This book presents key compliances, exemptions, and procedural requirements applicable to private limited companies in a structured and accessible format, helping stakeholders navigate governance and compliance obligations with clarity and confidence.

We extend our sincere gratitude to CA. Charanjot Singh Nanda, President, ICAI, and CA. Prasanna Kumar D., Vice President, ICAI, for their continued support, guidance, and encouragement.

We would also like to acknowledge the insightful contributions of CA.G. Gururaj Acharya and CA. Kamal Garg on this publication. We appreciate the efforts of Ms. Seema Jangid, Secretary to the Committee, in facilitating this publication.

We sincerely hope that this publication will serve as a practical and reliable guide for stakeholders, particularly our members, in facilitating timely and accurate compliance. It is intended to support the structured implementation of statutory requirements and assist in navigating regulatory obligations with clarity, consistency, and confidence.

Introduction: Private Companies

1.1 Overview of Companies in India

As per the data published by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA), a total of 30,30,432 companies were registered in India as on 31st December 2025, of which 66% (20,14,858 companies) were active. Private limited companies constitute nearly 96% of all active companies, accounting for approximately 39% of the total paid-up capital in the country.

The formation of a private limited company remains one of the most preferred forms of business organisation in India. Their widespread adoption can be attributed to advantages such as separate legal identity, limited liability, perpetual succession, structured governance, and the availability of various statutory exemptions.

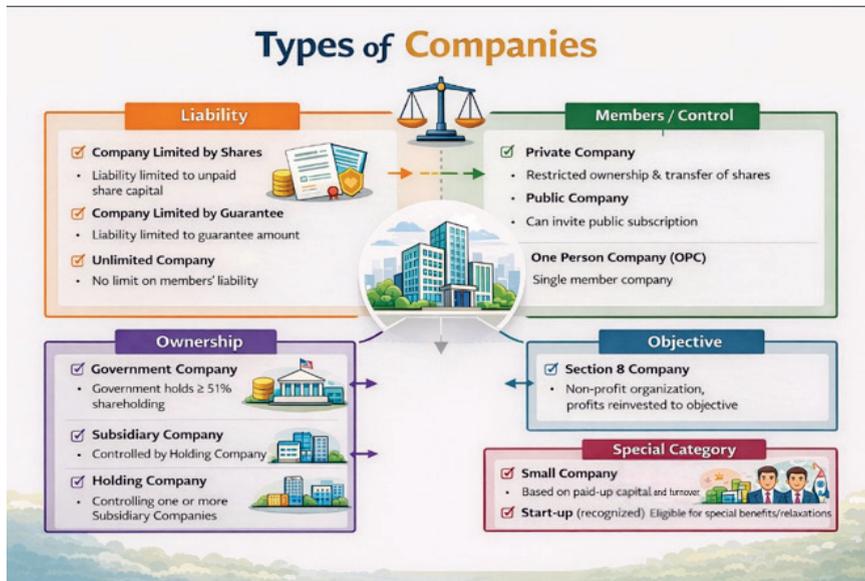

Companies in India are governed primarily by the Companies Act, 2013, along with rules, notifications, and circulars issued by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA).

The corporate form allows businesses to raise capital, limit the liability of owners, ensure continuity of operations, and operate under a regulated legal framework. Depending on their size, ownership, objectives, and control structure, companies are classified into different categories under the Companies Act, 2013.

1.2 Types of Companies in India

Under the Companies Act, 2013, companies can broadly be classified based on liability, number of members, control, and objectives. Each type of company is subject to a different level of regulatory compliance.

1.4 Private Companies: as defined under the Companies Act, 2013

Private company is defined under section 2(68) of the Companies Act, 2013 as follows:

(68) “private company” means a company having a minimum paid-up share capital as may be prescribed, and which by its articles,—

- (i) restricts the right to transfer its shares;
- (ii) except in case of One Person Company, limits the number of its members to two hundred:

Provided that where two or more persons hold one or more shares in a company jointly, they shall, for the purposes of this clause, be treated as a single member:

Provided further that:

- (A) persons who are in the employment of the company; and
- (B) persons who, having been formerly in the employment of the company, were members of the company while in that employment and have continued to be members after the employment ceased, shall not be included in the number of members; and
- (iii) prohibits any invitation to the public to subscribe for any securities of the company;

Key elements of the definition:

- Restriction on transfer of shares
- Maximum 200 members (excluding specified employees)
- Prohibition on public issue of securities

1.5 Why private limited companies are the preferred corporate form in India

Basis	Private Limited Company	LLP	Public Limited Company
Share in Corporate Registrations	Largest category of corporate registrations in India, forming the majority of incorporations on the MCA portal	Registrations significantly lower compared to companies	Comparatively minimal registrations
Legislative Intent	Companies Act, 2013 provides specific exemptions and relaxations, indicating legislative preference	Governed under a separate statute with limited corporate governance framework	Subject to stricter provisions recognising higher public interest

HB on Key Compliances and Exemptions for Private Limited Company under the Companies Act, 2013

Minimum Entry Threshold	Low entry threshold: minimum 2 members and 2 directors (Sections 2(68) & 149)	Minimum 2 partners and 2 Designated partners.	Higher threshold: minimum 7 members and 3 directors
Governance with Flexibility	Structured governance with Board oversight and statutory filings, combined with exemptions suitable for MSMEs	Highly flexible but less structured	Highly structured with mandatory committees and extensive compliance
Capital Formation Capability	Enabled to raise capital through private placement, rights issue and ESOPs (Sections 42 & 62)	No share capital mechanism	Can raise public funds subject to heavy regulation
Credibility in Financial System	Mandatory audit and ROC filings enhance lender and investor confidence	Lower institutional acceptance	Strong credibility, generally suited for large entities
Employment & MSME Impact	Major contributor to MSME-linked corporate employment	Limited scale employment	Employment concentrated in large enterprises
Scalability Path	Clear statutory pathway to convert into Public Company (Section 14)	Requires conversion into a company for scalability	Already positioned at a mature stage

Introduction: Private Companies

Regulatory Balance	Balances ease of doing business with accountability; aligned with Startup India reforms	Maximum ease with minimal oversight	Maximum oversight with reduced flexibility
Role in Corporate Ecosystem	Acts as the foundational and feeder structure of Corporate India	Plays a complementary role	Apex corporate form serving capital markets

1.6 Government's objective behind granting special exemptions to Private Companies:

Under the Companies Act, 2013, various relaxations have been provided in the procedural and compliance requirements for private companies to reduce administrative burden without compromising governance standards. The intent of giving exemptions is:

- Ease of doing business
- Reduced compliance cost
- Faster decision-making
- Encouragement to start-ups and small businesses
- Avoiding unnecessary corporate governance requirements meant for public companies.

*This is not intended to be an exhaustive publication of all compliances but presents certain key compliances as a ready reckoner and addresses the most common scenarios of Companies in Business as Usual Mode.

Users are advised to seek professional advice and refer to the provisions of the Act and the rules to ensure that all compliance requirements under the Act are achieved properly and on a timely basis and late fees and / penalties are avoided.

Incorporation and Commencement

2.1 The Companies Act, 2013 provides detailed requirements relating to the incorporation of a company and the commencement of its business thereafter. This chapter explains the procedure and prerequisites for incorporating a company as a form of organization. Most of these requirements are uniform and apply irrespective of whether the company qualifies as a Private Company or otherwise. Accordingly, any person intending to set up a company must understand and comply with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 read with the rules framed thereunder.

Exemptions/Carve Outs for Private Companies

Private companies, in particular, enjoy a more relaxed regulatory framework compared to public companies. This is because they usually operate with a smaller group of members, do not solicit funds from the public, and have a closely-held ownership structure. With lower associated risks, lawmakers have the flexibility to ease certain legal obligations navigating complex compliance procedures for such companies.

Under the Companies Act, 1956, several provisions expressly stated that certain sections would not apply to a private company, except where such private company was a subsidiary of a public company. Thus, the statute itself incorporated exclusionary carve-outs as per the nature of private companies.

Where there are certain carve outs that have been provided in the Companies Act, 2013, at the same time, the Companies Act, 2013 did not contain similar in-built exclusions. In the absence of such statutory exemptions, private companies became subject, in principle, to the full rigour of the Act.

It was therefore considered necessary to grant specific relaxations to private companies to preserve the policy intent of differential regulation. The Exemption Notification was issued to address this gap and to provide appropriate relief from certain provisions of the Act, thereby ensuring regulatory proportionality while maintaining essential governance standards.

Section 462 of the Companies Act, 2013 empowers the Central Government to dispense with, and exempt any class of companies from, applicability of any provision of the Act. Sub-section (1) of Section 462 reads as follows:

“(1) The Central Government may in the public interest, by notification direct that any of the provisions of this Act,—

- (a) shall not apply to such class or classes of companies; or
- (b) shall apply to the class or classes of companies with such exceptions, modifications and adaptations as may be specified in the notification.”

HB on Key Compliances and Exemptions for Private Limited Company under the Companies Act, 2013

This section empowers the Central Government to either grant total exemption or partial exemption

These carve outs and exemptions touch almost every facet of corporate governance i.e. from fewer board and shareholder requirements to simplified reporting and disclosure norms. By lightening the regulatory load, the law empowers private companies to operate efficiently, invest in growth, and innovate with greater freedom.

Accordingly, relaxations have been primarily provided through:

- I. Section-based carve-outs under the Companies Act, 2013 and the Rules thereof.
- II. Exemptions to Private Companies vide Notifications issued by the MCA
- III. Special provisions for start-ups and small companies

I. Section-based carve-outs under the Companies Act, 2013

Section-based exemptions are provisions within the Companies Act, 2013 that do not apply to private companies as either fully exempt or conditionally exempt or offering certain exemptions, offering built-in relaxations rather than separate exemptions as part of any exemption notification.

Key Compliances under the Companies Act, 2013 for Private Companies

Compliance with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 and the Rules made thereunder is a fundamental requirement for persons choosing to conduct their affairs through a corporate form of organisation.

The following is the list of certain key compliance requirements under the Companies Act 2013 for Private Companies.

The Compliances can be divided into:

- Compliances to be adhered to immediately after the incorporation,
- Annual Compliances,
- Key General Compliances
- Key Event Based Compliances
- Threshold Based Compliances

A company incorporated outside India can incorporate a subsidiary either as a public company or a private company- MCA circular no 23/2014 dated 25-6-2014.

Commonly Applicable Penalties for Non- Compliances by Private Companies

In the event of non-compliance with any of the provisions of the Companies Act 2013, the Act prescribes penalties, which may be section-specific or general in nature, depending on the nature of the default.

Among these, certain penalties are commonly applicable to Private Companies and are frequently encountered in practice. A select list of such penalties is set out below for ease of reference.

It is clarified that the penalties discussed in this chapter are illustrative and not exhaustive. In addition to the penalties mentioned herein, several other penalties may also become applicable to Private Companies depending on the specific provisions contravened and the facts and circumstances of each case.
